In addition, the Company has categorized stakeholder groups relevant to human rights issues and established appropriate operational guidelines, as summarized from the aforementioned policy as follows,

1) Employee and Labor

The rights of workers and employee working conditions are aligned with international labor standards. The Company adheres to its Policy on Human Rights, Policy on Treatment of Employees, Code of Conduct for Employees and Executives, Human Resource Strategy, and the Quality, Security, Safety, Occupational Health, Environment, and Business Continuity Policy. These policies are consistent with the International Labour Organization (ILO) standards, particularly in respecting the right to freedom of association and the right to collective bargaining. The Company is committed to preventing all forms of discrimination and strictly prohibits harassment, including sexual and other forms of harassment, human trafficking, child labor, and forced labor. This approach is also in accordance with the Company's Abuse and Harassment Policy. Furthermore, special attention is given to protecting the rights of vulnerable groups, such as children, persons with disabilities, women, members of the LGBTQ+ community, the elderly, and pregnant women, among others.

2) Local Communities

The Company is committed to being a trusted partner to local communities and actively promotes community rights through various initiatives. These initiatives are implemented directly by the Company, in collaboration with business partners, and in coordination with government agencies, with the goal of supporting the development of communities in areas where the Company operates. Additionally, the Company encourages community participation by providing accessible channels for expressing opinions and feedback regarding its business operations.

3) Business Partners

Business partners refer to contractors, suppliers, service providers, or other entities that have a contractual relationship with the Company in connection with its business operations. The Company expects and encourages its business partners to respect human rights and to conduct their operations in accordance with the principles outlined in the Supplier Code of Conduct. Furthermore, the Company calls on its partners to demonstrate a clear commitment to identifying, preventing, and mitigating human rights risks, as well as taking responsibility for the human rights impacts of their own activities. In cases of human rights violations, the Company expects business partners to have appropriate processes in place to remediate and address such violations effectively.

4) Customer

The Company is committed to respecting and protecting the human rights of all customers by providing services fairly, without discrimination, and does not violate personal rights. The Company ensures transparent handling of customer complaints and promotes access to clear, accurate, and sufficient information to enable customers to make informed decisions. The Company will not engage in any actions—either directly or indirectly—that could compromise the dignity of customers or lead to misunderstanding or misrepresentation

The Company provides communication channels for stakeholders to express concerns, report issues, or submit complaints through the 1720 system.

This policy implementation is consistent with the intent of the Company that all relevant parties are treated with fairness, dignity, respect and equal opportunity along with ensuring community and social responsibility on the basis of safety and good quality of life. This includes encouraging Suppliers and Business Partner to grow responsibly together and respect the fundamental human rights of all stakeholders equally in accordance with the international practice for corporate social responsibility towards sustainable growth.
